ARCH 497
Spring 2019

434 Stuckeman Family Building
Shadi Nazarian
3 Credit seminar.
open to all disciplines

You are empowered by engaging in a process of building an effective and accurate self-image, revealing latent but increasingly relevant multidisciplinary interests and capabilities; you are asked to project yourself beyond your current trajectory.

You are guided to systematically document, catalogue, present, and represent your work, methodologies, and hobbies, to make visible your unique approach toward your discipline; and to extract at least one derivative portfolio, developed as a coherent entity that embodies your principles and manifests a range of projects portraying what you do and who you are as a professional and as a person.

You are engaged in a creative process of making an indispensable tool to create a vision; a trajectory for your career; a companion that enables you to effectively examine and exhibit your skills, strengths, and special attributes; a portfolio that demonstrates your ability to learn from opportunities you have already encountered, while uniting the seemingly unrelated experiences to depict a cohesive journey of discovery that may uncover a wider range of career options; you compose your Avatar.
